PRESS RELEASE

- Houston, TX., August 2009-

LAGO Energy (www.lagoenergyusa.com) of Houston, Texas is proud to announce the launch of its new consulting division in Human Capital and Organization, focusing on the global energy infrastructure sector.

Players in the energy industry today operate in an environment characterized by expanding globalization, accelerating technologies, aggressive competitors, sharp regulators and demanding customers. The ability to succeed in this tough environment requires top talent and effective organizations.

"We are tailoring these important services to the specific needs of our clients" said LAGO CEO Hernan Arizmendi. "In addition to our technical and geopolitical expertise, we will be offering tools to the energy sector to develop professional competence and contribute to our clients' success."

LAGO has appointed Raul Almeida, a senior executive with broad experience in global HR strategy to lead LAGO's new Human Capital & Organization practice.

"LAGO will now offer state-of-the art services and tools that support, build and develop talent and organizational capability. We are prepared to help with talent acquisition, assessment and development programs that address the unique needs of the energy industry", Almeida said. "Working with world class consulting firms as strategic partners, we are prepared to provide broad expertise to clients dealing with pressing talent and organizational issues."
